

THE DETROIT JEWISH NEWS

Here's To March 2023

The Nobel Peace Prize committee has named a global organization as one of its 2023 nominees, with one of its active members and leaders based here in Metro Detroit. Alisa Peskin-Shepherd, principal of Transitions Legal and a family law attorney who specializes in Collaborative Practice, serves on the equity and inclusion (IDEA) committee and the Grow Membership committee for the International Academy of Collaborative Professionals (IACP).

The Nobel committee nominated IACP for its global efforts in conflict resolution. The Transitions Legal team brings these practices and perspectives to southeast Michigan family law cases. Collaborative Practice is a unique dispute resolution model that provides families the opportunity to reduce the negative impacts of separation by working cooperatively with teams of specially trained legal, financial and mental health professionals who educate, support and guide couples toward respectful resolutions, without resorting to litigation or acrimony.